Context:

- Jesus said that there would be pestilence as a sign of the Last Days
- These are infectious diseases that are contagious and can lead to epidemics of death
- Pestilence is often referred to in a progressive trinity leading to death with that being the domino effect of the sword or war, the famine, and then the pestilence
- This progression is foretold in the prophecy of Revelation 6 where the 4th horseman of the Apocalypse named as death rides the pale horse and a fourth of the earth dies by the sword, hunger, and by the beasts of the earth
- A known method of infection and transfer of pestilent diseases is through contact with infected beasts or animals and then transference to other humans
- The most devastating epidemic in world history suddenly appeared in the 20th century with a vicious ability to transfer and kill
- Today even more exotic diseases are appearing in the world and old killers are making a comeback.
